

Help for School-Age Children & Youth

Under federal law, students in temporary living situations have educational rights.

Who

- Families sharing housing due to economic hardship and loss of housing.
- Families living in motels, substandard housing and other temporary situations.
- Teens living temporarily without a parent or guardian.

Services

Assistance with immediate school enrollment, transportation to stay in school even if you move out of district (as long as it's in the student's best interest), supplies, clothing, school-related expenses, credit recovery, housing crisis and other referrals, and general support for school success.

Talk to your school's social worker or call the Education Project at (734) 994-8100, x1518.
